

Connecting People with Communities in Need

Our Organisation

Humanitarian Affairs is a London-based Social Enterprise that empowers young people to become global citizens with compassion for the world's poor.

Humanitarian Affairs United Kingdom manages the administrative and policy matters of the organisation, while Humanitarian Affairs Asia, its Regional Headquarter located in Thailand, is its operational arm. The Asia Office administers the annual University Scholars Leadership Symposium and other programmes and projects held in the Asia and Pacific Region.

Humanitarian Affairs is a member of the World Association of Non-Governmental Organizations and the World Alliance for Citizens Participation.

Our Goals

Mission

To nurture youths into responsible, competent and compassionate global citizens by equipping them with knowledge, skills and exposure.

Vision

We seek a world where every young person has:

- A sense of compassion for the less fortunate
- A sense of social responsibility
- Opportunity to serve others
- Opportunity to initiate sustainable development programmes

Our Purpose

Humanitarian Affairs aims to provide youths the opportunity to engage in humanitarian service, strengthen their awareness of diverse cultures, and develop a lifelong commitment to helping others by participating in relief efforts to benefit impoverished communities in poverty-stricken countries.

Encountering different cultures and providing aid to those suffering abroad facilitates both intellectual and emotional development.

Most importantly, this process helps to bring education, relief and warmth to the lives of those suffering throughout the world.

Our Flagship Projects

University Scholars Leadership Symposium

The University Scholars Leadership Symposium is a service learning conference for outstanding global youth leaders from the world's leading universities. Young people are gathered together to be in dialogue about key humanitarian issues.

Oxford Symposium

The Oxford Symposium is a prestigious social entrepreneurship conference for the students of the world's Top 200 Universities. Humanitarian Affairs United Kingdom presents this as an opportunity for young people to learn from expert social entrepreneurs from the University of Oxford.

Asia Fundraising Conference

Humanitarian Affairs Asia invites 300 NGO officers to learn from distinguished fundraising specialists. The organisation seeks to empower NGOs by improving their capacities in fundraising in order for them to continue their good work in helping communities in need.

Our Services

Humanitarian Affairs aims for the youth to develop a lifelong commitment to helping others through its various programmes.

It engages the youth to become involved in the world's battle against poverty through :

Service Learning Conferences such as the Oxford Symposium and the University Scholars Leadership Symposium;

Humanitarian Relief Efforts it conducts in various poverty- and disaster-stricken countries; and

Internship Placement Programmes that mentors them in the art of organising event in Social Change.

Our Values

Humanitarian Affairs has seven values that build up the character and identity of the organisation and its mission :

We are Determined
We have Integrity
We value Respect
We are Thoughtful
We are Kind
We are Responsible
We are Compassionate

Our Partners

Our network of partnerships allows us to reach out to many disadvantaged communities that benefit from our humanitarian efforts and sustainable development programmes.

Humanitarian Affairs partners with institutions, government bodies, universities and NGOs in more than 45 countries all over the world. Strong support from the United Nations affirms the good work we do with the youth and all our partners

The University of Oxford and the University of Cambridge are some of our 200 university links that enable us to tap the best minds of today's youth. Through the various ministries of education, local government is also engaged in all the countries wherein our international conferences are held.
